The Blessing

My Child, today I want to impart a blessing to you.

I bless your life - the life God gave you. He knew you before He created the world. He formed you to be exactly who you are, to look as you do, to have the personality and character you have. There were no surprises. You were uniquely crafted and specifically designed for God's purpose. He rejoiced when you were created, celebrated and boasted when you were born and has been with you every day and year that have passed. He loves you and wants you to know the height, depth and breadth of His Love for you - not for what you do or have done, but for who you are.

I bless your faith in Jesus Christ that you may not only believe what He has said, but receive what He has promised for your life. I bless you in your walk with God that you may be a faithful follower of Jesus Christ with your mind bound to His thoughts, your hands bound to His work and your feet bound to His path for your life.

I bless the day you were born, the perfect timing of your birth and the destiny that God pre-planned for your life. May you discover the joy of walking in the steps that God has ordered for your life.

I bless your emotional life that you may understand deep in your heart that God will always provide a safe place for you, a place of refuge in this earth from the forces that set themselves against you. May God's perfect love displace any fears in your life. I bless the work of your hands that it be fulfilling to you and glorifying to God.

I bless your finances, that you may always know the abundance of God's supply, that you will always discern and obey the requirements for financial blessing and live securely without need or fear of want.

I bless and release you into the destiny and purpose God has for you and the anointing over your life. May you continue to grow in your areas of gifting and any others God has for you.

My child, know this day that you are a blessed child of the most High God with the same inheritance as that of His Son Jesus Christ.

In Whose name and authority I pronounce this blessing on you today.

AMEN

The Power of the Parent Blessing

We want to support our children in walking toward the best possible future. We want to spend time with them and hope they want to spend time with us. We want to prevent their suffering, of every kind. We want to retain a certain level of godlike influence, wielding power over the situations that can break their hearts, drain their checkbooks, and damage their bodies. We want to give them a peaceful and pain free life, where sin is rendered powerless and salvation is assured.
